Congratulations on your upcoming move! As part of your relocation process, you may want to consider insurance to protect your valuables while being loaded, transported and unloaded by your moving company.

AN IMPORTANT MOVING EXPOSURE TO CONSIDER

Accidents happen, and even the most careful movers can end up with broken and damaged items. Many people do not realize that without moving insurance, they will not have sufficient coverage to pay for damages. Homeowners and renters insurance usually does not cover goods once they leave your home. And, moving companies are only liable for $0.60 per pound, per article. For example, if your dining room table weighs 100 lbs. and is damaged, your moving company is only liable for $60.00! (100 lbs. x $0.60). If you want full replacement coverage for your belongings, it is wise to purchase a separate moving insurance policy.

MOVING COMPANY VALUATION

60 cents per pound

Can you replace your 100-pound dining room table for $60?

MOVINGINSURANCE.COM COVERAGE

Full Replacement Value

If your dining room table is valued at $500, and irreparable, you will receive $500 less your deductible with the proper claim documentation.
